

MAKE GLORIOUS FOURTH A NEIGHBORHOOD CELEBRATION FOR BIG AND LITTLE FOLKS

BY CAROLINE COE

Plan to give the entire day to the children. All the children in the neighborhood probably know each other, and it's a good time for the parents to become acquainted.

Make up a very easy and inexpensive menu. Let each family carry their own dishes, bread and butter. Then plan to have all of one article prepared by one person or, if too great a burden, by two or three. Use paper table clothes, napkins and paper cups and plates.

Have plenty of fruit, the kind that carries well. Oranges, bananas and apricots just now are very inexpensive. Plenty of radishes and pickles. Do not make sandwiches. Carry loaves of bread with good sharp knife and plenty of butter, and save time and patience.

Even if it does rain on the "glorious Fourth" don't let so small a thing as a shower spoil the children's celebration.

If you cannot have a picnic in the park or the woods have one in the house or on the porch; if you can't have a noisy, "glorious" celebration, at least have as good a time as you can.

This guessing game, which teaches a lesson of patriotism, will interest an indoor Fourth of July party.

Who was the father of his country? Washington.

Who wrote the Declaration of Independence? Jefferson.

Who was called Old Hickory? Andrew Jackson.

Who was the Hero of Tippecanoe? William Harrison.

Who was called the Rail Splitter? A. Lincoln.

Who was the Rough Rider? T. Roosevelt.

Give prize for one who guesses the greatest number.

ANOTHER GAME

The "Wonderful Penny" is another game that will amuse the children for a while. Paste a brand new penny on a piece of cardboard and ask the kiddies to find answers to the following questions on it:

An Eastern fruit? A date.

Dutch flowers? Tulips.

A great country? U. S.

Edge of a hill? Brow.

A place of worship? Temple.

The center of crime? "I" (eye).

An American coin? One cent.

Our first family? Indian.

A piece of armor? Shield.

Meaning to understand? Nose.

Sign of our flag? Stripes.

A little bag with twenty-five bright, new pennies may be given as a prize for the one who gives the most answers in this game.

Here is a Menu for Your Fourth of July Picnic.

Cheese and lemonade.

SOME OF THE RECIPES

The little pies may be made of mutton or lamb. Buy two pounds of shoulder. Put one in enough water to just cover. Add two laurel leaves, a pepper cone and boil until nearly tender. Then salt and cook until meat drops from bones. Pick up small pieces. Strain stock. There should be three cups, thicken with flour as for gravy. Add meat and set aside to get cold.

Line small patty pans with a rich crust, fill with the meat, wet edge of bottom crust, put on top, pinch down well and bake a golden brown, let get cold, wrap in oil paper. All ready for the picnic. (If you do not happen to
